

The Best of NRMC's Resilience Resources

Resource Type: Risk eNews

Topic: Business Continuity Planning, Crisis Management, Crisis Communications

Resilience is a subject that is top of mind for many nonprofit leaders today. At NRMC, we believe that building organizational resilience is a core component of effective risk management. Today's RISK eNews presents a collection of resilience resources developed by our team.

Business Continuity Planning

Business continuity planning (BCP) is one of the best ways to strengthen your organization's resilience. A practical BCP is a helpful roadmap or playbook when an event or circumstances beyond your control disrupt 'normal' operations. And remember that it's not just the plan that will bolster your ability to bounce back, the process of creating the plan builds resilience muscle!

Explore our latest issue of Risk Management Essentials (RME), the BCP Issue, for three great articles to help you ignite support for a continuity project at your organization. Don't miss the following additional articles for practical BCP tips:
